Can Any Beauty Match This?

When the sun within speaks, when love reaches out its hand and places it upon another,

any power the stars and planets might have upon us, any fears you can muster can become so rightfully insignificant.

What one heart can do for another heart, is there any beauty in the world that can match this?

Brotherhood, sisterhood, humanity becomes the joy and the emancipation.

By: Hafiz

From the Penguin publication, A Year With Hafiz, copyright 2011 Daniel Ladinsky.
Melissa Castillo-Garsow is a Mexican-American writer, journalist and scholar currently pursuing a Ph.D. in American Studies and African American Studies at Yale University. Her work has been published or is forthcoming in numerous journals including Acentos Review. Her first novel is entitled Pure Bronx. She is currently completing her first book of poetry Coatlicue Eats the Apple.

Ralph Nazareth is a professor of English at Nassau Community College on Long Island and managing editor of Yuganta Press in Stamford. For the past ten years he has been a volunteer, teaching creative writing at maximum security prisons in New York state. His poetry and prose have appeared in books and journals here and abroad. His collection of poems Ferrying Secrets was published in 2005 in Hyderabad, India.

Emelda Ramos is a Dominican writer, educator and cultural animator. She is the director of the School of Modern Languages at Universidad Católica Nordestana (UCNE), and was recently awarded an Honoris Causa doctorate in Humanities. She has written numerous publications including novels, short stories and children’s books; her work has appeared in documents and anthologies world-wide.